

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON

The Al Mana Scholarship Fund 2017-18 Academic Year Fellowship

Administered by the University of Oregon's Global Studies Institute

PURPOSE

The fund provides academic year fellowships to female Saudi students who wish to enroll in the University of Oregon in global health related fields. The overarching goals of the scholarship include:

- to bring female Saudi students to the UO to study global health;
- to build research and other partnerships in global health in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia.

ELIGIBILITY

To be eligible for the Al Mana Fellowship, candidates must meet the following criteria:

- be a female Saudi undergraduate or graduate student, either currently at UO or enrolling in a UO program, in good standing;
- show potential for high academic achievement; and
- demonstrate long-term interest in global health issues.

AWARD AND REQUIREMENTS

Al Mana Fellows will receive a $26,000 award for tuition and fees for the academic year, plus a $6,000 stipend. Fellows will intern approximately 8 hours per week in the Center for Global Health, assisting with programming and outreach activities.

Al Mana Scholarship recipients must be enrolled in a full-time program of study in a global health related field such as: Human Physiology, Biology, Prevention Sciences, Psychology, Anthropology, International Studies (with Global Health Concentration), Health Economics, Environmental Studies (with Global Health Concentration), Women's and Gender Studies (with Global Health Concentration), etc.

APPLICATION MATERIALS

Each application must include the following:

- Al Mana Scholarship application form and cover sheet (attached)
- A statement of purpose (no longer than 2 pages, double-spaced) that includes the subject of your research or your area of professional study and the significance of global health in your research/studies.
- Official academic transcripts for all university work.
- Two letters of reference, preferably from instructors who can comment on your work pertaining to global health. Please use the enclosed Reference Forms.
